

DevOps Tools Engineer [f|m|d] - Germany-Remote

Our Vision is to be the Most Trusted, Flexible and Easy to Use Hybrid Cloud Data Platform. Actian is transforming industries by empowering companies to accelerate application modernization and simplify the Cloud journey. Our customers use the Actian Data Platform to unify their siloed data, explore and securely exchange data to run a variety of analytic workloads that provide real time business insights at a fraction of the cost. We have 24 of the Fortune 100 companies using Actian technology in some of the most mission critical applications that impact your daily life.

The Role:

We are looking for a Development Operations Tools Engineer to write the glue that holds our products together. This will require picking up new language and write integration tools between multiple software development tools as well as integration components for our web-based infrastructure.

Key Responsibilities:

- Maintain and monitor existing development tools and infrastructure
- Develop automation tools and scripts.
- Create and configure new project code bases, user management and other day-to-day administrative tasks with version control tool(s).
- Strong troubleshooting and debugging skills

Requirements:

- 3+ years of experience in Computer Science, Engineering or related field
- Expertise in deploying DevOps tools/infrastructure
- Expertise in JIRA Software, JIRA Plugins configuration and integration
- Experience developing with JavaScript, Python
- 1+ years of Coding/Scripting experience with: Python
- Knowledge of virtualization tools like Docker, Kubernetes
- Knowledge of Cloud based DevOps practices and Infrastructure as Code

Our Offer:

As an expanding technology company with headquarter in Silicon Valley and further locations in the USA, Europe and Asia, we offer you an appealing overall package:

- Attractive career and training opportunities
- Appreciation, trust and respect on all levels
- A success-oriented compensation / fixed salary plus bonus
- Work-life balance in a home office with flexible working hours

- State of the art work equipment
- Work & travel in an international environment
- Team events, trade fairs and seasonal on-site company parties

This position is not tied to any work location in Germany/Europe, but proximity to an international airport is an advantage. Mobile working is state of the art at Actian in such a position and we trust your self-organization in the home office.

If you are interested, please send us your resume/CV. We will get to know you in different team constellations via video calls.

All qualified applicants have the same chance at Actian - regardless of origin, age, religion, skin color, gender, disability, gender orientation or gender identity.

In order to provide equal opportunities for people with disabilities, please let us know if you need special assistance during the interview process.

